

Trucks and buses are only 10% of the vehicles on the road, but spew almost 50% of the pollution into our air.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY MUST LISTEN TO COMMUNITIES, NOT TRUCK MANUFACTURERS, TO CUT ASTHMA ATTACK CAUSING POLLUTION

For the first time in 20 years, the EPA is working on a rule to slash toxic pollution from trucks and buses. Some truck makers are undermining the adoption of strong standards through harmful industry lobbying with misleading claims. The EPA must move forward with a bold final rule—for public health, environmental justice, and climate action.
